

unai

a personal calendar made by you and AI

Problem

We spend a lot of our day either planning or reflecting, wasting hours of potential flow state minimizing our productivity. We only have 4-5 hours of productive hours in a day that is predetermined by our circadian rhythm, yet we don't optimize our work hours for them.

Solution

Our solution is to create a personal AI assistant for you. Using all the data that you provide to your advantage utilizing its insights about what works for you and others. Give it feedback so you can get something that makes you 10x your productivity. Working with you not just as a tool, but as a friend.

unai auto-injects events into your calendar based off your goals, data and feedback. The main way unai helps you.

bio-metric health data

using bio-metric data from your health apps, unai can make plans to match your circadian rhythm and exercise patterns.

10x productivity

10x your output through saving time normally wasted into planning. unai does all that for you, you just simply follow and give feedback.
